

Tall ship Pride of Baltimore II returns to Inner Harbor

Ship has been traveling the U.S. since May

By Steve Kilar, The Baltimore Sun

8:14 p.m. EDT, November 4, 2011

The reproduction tall ship Pride of Baltimore II returned Friday to Baltimore's Inner Harbor after sailing the Chesapeake Bay, the East Coast and the Great Lakes for five months.

The ship, which was built to look like a "1812-era topsail schooner privateer," will sail two more times — from 2 to 4:30 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday — before ending its 2011 season.

Tickets are $45 for adults and $30 for children 12 and under. Free dockside tours of the deck will also be given between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

On Sunday, park rangers from Fort McHenry will be present on the ship and dressed in period uniforms to learn about the ship's operations from the crew. The rangers will also be teaching the crew about tall ships' role in the War of 1812.

steve.kilar@baltsun.com

twitter.com/stevekilar

The Pride of Baltimore returned to its home port of Baltimore after a 5-month sail in the Great Lakes and Canada. (Baltimore Sun photo by Gene Sweeney Jr. / November 4, 2011)